Dasara-2020
No Jumboo Savari ?

- Vijayadashami procession within Palace premises
- Public not allowed; no cultural events
- Final decision at Chief Minister's High-Power Committee meeting in Bengaluru

Mysuru, Aug. 26 (SSV)- Perhaps for the first time in the history of Nada Habba Dasara in Mysuru, there may not be Jumboo Savari procession from Mysore Palace to Bannimantap Torchlight Parade Grounds on Vijayadashami Day and other activities including cultural events anywhere in the city owing to COVID-19 pandemic.

Co-operation and Mysuru District-In-Charge Minister S.T. Somashekar told Star of Mysore that Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa had already indicated that this year's Dasara will be simple one without affecting its 500-year-old tradition. Accordingly, it is unlikely to have cultural events at least in six to seven different locations, State-level sports, wrestling, kite festival and other entertainment programmes.

Picture for representation only.

"As far as my knowledge, the CM may offer floral tributes to the idol of Goddess Chamundeshwari seated on the Golden Howdah-carrying elephant on Vijayadashami Day and take it in a procession within the Palace premises."

"Entry of public inside the Palace may be restricted. Yediyurappa may complete the formality of holding Dasara in a most simple manner without hurting the sentiments of Mysureans. Holding any large-gathering event during all the ten days is risky, especially in the current situation," the Minister observed.

Phase-2 human trials of COVID-19 vaccine to begin at JSS Hospital soon

Mysuru, Aug. 26 (RK&BCT)- The Phase-2 human trials of Oxford University's COVID-19 vaccine 'Covishield', manufactured at the Pune-based Serum Institute of India (SII) will begin at Mysuru's JSS Hospital and Medical College in a couple of days. The Institute is awaiting guidelines and samples from SII.

The JSS Hospital has been shortlisted to take up the COVID-19 vaccine trials. Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Director of JSS Hospital and Head of COVID-19 Testing Laboratory Col. (Retd) Dayanand said that the institution has been granted permission to conduct the human trials and ICMR and other statutory authorities have already inspected the facilities at the Institution.

"Inspection of infrastructure and clearance were crucial and we have been approved to conduct human trials. We are waiting for test samples and guidelines. The trials will start in a couple of days," he said.

The vaccine candidate, developed by Jenner Institute of Oxford University, will be launched under the brand name 'Covishield' in India. The Serum Institute has tied up with British-Swedish pharmaceutical firm AstraZeneca to produce 1 billion doses of the vaccine in the country.

MCC moots 'Heritage Cess'

To collect Re. 1 or Rs. 2 extra from tourists visiting Palace, Zoo for conservation of existing historic structures

Mysuru, Aug. 26 (SSV)- The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) is contemplating to levy 'Heritage Cess' on tourists to generate resources for restoration and conservation of the surviving heritage structures in city.

If approved, the MCC perhaps, will become the first Urban Local Body (ULB) in the country to impose this kind of cess to protect heritage structures within Mysuru.

"This is one of the best methods to mobilise resources as the MCC has other priorities to look after. We are planning to send a proposal to the Government seeking permission to collect cess," MCC Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde told Star of Mysore.

He said Mysuru city was blessed with more than 200 heritage structures, thanks to Wadiyars. But the condition of the majority of these buildings was not in a good state owing to lack of maintenance and paucity of funds.

Karnataka State Municipalities Act permits local bodies to levy cess depending upon its requirement with the Government's approval. A cess of Rs. 2 on each tourist who visit important tourist destinations like Mysore Palace, Zoo etc., would fetch good revenue to the Corporation. The city clocks a footfall of around 20-25 lakh every year and imposing 'Heritage Cess' on them would yield not less than Rs. 50 lakh from one tourist place. A similar amount could be expected from other places too. This would reduce dependency on the Government to a great extent, he said.

DAV Public School: Bringing Classroom to Homes

Mysuru, Aug. 26- With uncertainty over reopening of schools and colleges, various educational institutions are resorting to online classes. One such effort to keep students motivated and academically updated is made by DAV Public School.

The school management is leaving no stone unturned in making the teaching-learning process simple, interesting and enjoyable and in tune with the regular school schedule.

These online lessons are recorded by the teachers and uploaded in the Google drive. The link is then sent to the respective students. This method is used keeping in mind the technical challenges faced by the students with respect to timings, availability of internet, mobiles and laptops. This flexibility of time allows the students to go through the lessons at their convenience.

Along with videos, the teachers post assignments, worksheets, and notes through WhatsApp. The students can contact the teachers and have their doubts cleared. This ensures that two-way communication is maintained. Students receive individual attention by teachers.

Further, the lessons are revised once again through weekly interactive Zoom classes between the teachers and the students. Teachers are using innovative audio-visual aids to make the sessions more effective. After every topic, an online test is conducted where the question paper is released at a definite time after setting the duration. These tests are held under the supervision of the teachers through Zoom app.

All the students log in at the given time simultaneously to write the test. This gives the students the feeling of being in school. The performance and learning ability of the students is easily tracked. Data of every student is individually stored and digitally trackable.

In addition to academics, the management is providing overall personality development and artistic skills of the students through various co-curricular activities.

There are online Yoga classes, physical education exercises, arts and craft classes so that the students do not miss out on anything. Also, events such as online International Yoga Day and World Environment Day were celebrated. The students are participating actively in these events with full enthusiasm.

"From the students' point of view, these video classes have been started so that the students are not burdened academically. We hope with this user-friendly approach, the students and parents make the most of this opportunity. With the support of our School Chairman N. Sachidananda Murthy, Secretary R. Anand and CEO Jayashree S. Murthy, we are able to reach the children even in this pandemic situation," said Principal K.R. Shobha.

Internet amused after woman dyes her cat yellow

Bangkok: A concerned pet parent in Thailand accidentally transformed her feline into something resembling Pikachu with a turmeric scrub and the internet is in love with a yellow cat.

Thammapa Supamas from Thailand was worried after she noticed her beloved pet cat had developed a fungal infection on one of its limbs. To treat the infection, she decided to apply a turmeric scrub on the white cat, a big mistake she did.

While turmeric is prized for its antifungal and antibacterial properties, it also stains easy. Supamas learned first-hand just how easily it stains when she ended up dyeing her cat yellow with the turmeric scrub.

The pictures have gone viral on social media, collecting thousands of 'likes' and amused comments. Many compared the unnamed cat to Pikachu the pokemon, while Harry Potter fans remembered a memorable spell from the first book of the superhit series.

Teen allergic to touch uses her body as a canvas

Copenhagen: An 18-year-old girl suffering from a skin condition called dermatographia, which causes her skin to swell up when touched, is using her own body as a canvas for playful doodles.

18-year-old Emma Aldenryd creates her very own type of body art by running a pencil over her skin, which causes the lines she traces to swell and redden, leaving behind temporary doodles that fade after about 30 minutes.

The Danish teen discovered that she had dermatographia three years ago, after a friend noticed that her arms turned red and swollen. Instead of hiding away her skin condition, Emma decided to embrace it and use her own body as an artistic medium.

Nostalgically Speaking - 5

Dr. John Eswaraiah and

Dr. K.B. Subbaiah made for each other !

Sir,

This refers to KBG's article "Nostalgically Speaking — 5: Mission Hospital, Old Glory" (Star of Mysore dated Aug.16) which was very excellent. Please permit me to add a few words:

It is true the two top doctors of Holdsworth Memorial Hospital, popularly known as Mission Hospital, Dr. John Eswaraiah, FRCS (Eng), FRCS Edinburgh, FACS USA, was a very eminent Surgeon and Dr. K.B. Subbaiah, MBBS MRCP (London), was an equally eminent Physician and a top Cardiologist.

The above two Surgeon-Physician team was an eyesore to so many doctors because of their popularity. Dr. John Eswaraiah was a specialist in General Surgery and Urology. A British trained Surgeon, he used to do Surgery in Orthopaedics, Gynaecology and Plastic Surgery in case of emergency.

Similarly Dr. K.B. Subbaiah was a British trained Physician and Cardiologist of repute.

It may not be out of context to say Dr. John Eswaraiah used to see the medical patients in the absence of Dr. K.B. Subbaiah and Dr. Subbaiah used to attend to surgery patients in the absence of Dr. John Eswaraiah. There was co-operation and also understanding between the two doctors.

I have seen both of them visiting the Flower Show during Dasara and also attend special lectures or seminars in K.R. Hospital Pathology Hall.

During Dr. Subbaiah's tenure, it was very difficult to get Special Ward as it was always full. When my father was admitted for Prostate Surgery in the year 1972 at Men's Surgical Ward for want of Special Ward, I approached Dr. Subbaiah, who was very well-known to our family. He immediately ordered the Staff Nurse to shift my father to a Special Ward close to Consultation which was actually reserved for his mother. Such was the generosity of Dr. K.B. Subbaiah.

Let branding of Nandini products be in Kannada: KDA Chief

Bengaluru, Aug. 26 (SSV)- Kannada Development Authority (KDA) Chairman T.S. Nagabharana said that Karnataka Milk Federation (KMF), which has a variety of milk products and by-products, should act as a Kannada Ambassador by printing the names of all its products in regional language.

Speaking at a online meeting to review implementation of Kannada in KMF here on Tuesday, he said that the products were sold across the globe and having Kannada on them was like promoting Kannada language everywhere. In fact, KMF has over 130 products which were being exported all over the world. Every product should be given unique name in Kannada to popularise it. Nagabharana said, it has come to his notice that the names of several Nandini outlets were in English. One of the products had been named 'Chakki Laadu', a non-Kannada word and it had been reported in media. Was it right to work as a brand for English when the Federation has been a lifeline of lakhs of farmers. Already, the Authority had written a letter to the Federation Head seeking clarification.

The Chairman said that the Federation has empowered thousands of farmers but the websites of all district Milk Unions were in English. As per the State Government's direction, those websites should be in Kannada at the earliest, he added.

KMF Managing Director B.C. Satish said that strict instruction would be given to all concerned to compulsorily use Kannada on its products. Besides, all the districts Milk Union websites would be converted into Kannada soon.

E-Governance adviser to the CM Belur Sudarshan, KDA Member Lohit Chakratheertha, KDA Secretary Dr. K. Muralidhar, KDA Chairman's Personal Secretary Dr. Veerashetty, Kannada activist Arun Javagal, KMF Director (Administration) Dr. C.N. Ramesh, Additional Director M.S. Suhail and Web Portal Planning Officer Satish attended the meeting.

Restoration work of Madikeri monuments

HC refrains ASI from levying service charge on State Government

Bengaluru, Aug. 26- In a significant judgement regarding restoration work of monuments at Madikeri in Kodagu district, the Karnataka High Court on Monday directed the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) to take up permanent restoration work of the ancient Fort, Palace premises and tombs (Gadduge) of Kodagu Kings at Madikeri town, the district headquarters of Kodagu, while also asking it not to levy service charge to the State Government for carrying out the work.

A Division Bench of the High Court, comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S. Kinagi, which heard a PIL filed by J.S. Virupakshaiah, a retired IAS Officer and a resident of Kodlipet in Somwarpet taluk in Kodagu district in 2017, directed the Kodagu Deputy Commissioner to nominate an officer not below the rank of Assistant Commissioner to frequently visit the site of the monuments.

Instructing the officer to be designated to take up the issue with ASI if he/ she finds that the work is not carried out as per the DPR (Detailed Project Report), the bench also directed that the Assistant Commissioner shall submit a report as regards the status of the emergency work and also the status of major restoration or repair works.

Observing that it is a great deal of importance that the said work is carried out efficiently, properly and expeditiously as it is the duty of the ASI to ensure that the protected monuments are restored and maintained, the HC Bench directed the ASI to complete all emergency works within Oct. 14, 2020.

On the service charge issue, the Court directed the ASI, which had contemplated a 23.7 percent service charge on the State Government, not to levy the service charge for carrying out the restoration or repair work.

Noting that there is no justification at all for the ASI to levy service charge to the State Government, the Bench held that the ASI is not empowered and also not entitled to collect service charge from the State Govt.

The petitioner J.S. Virupakshaiah, in his PIL (Public Interest Litigation), had contended that instead of preserving the protected monuments, the State Government had been running its offices on the Palace premises.

However, during the course of the PIL hearing, the District Administration vacated the offices of Social Welfare Department, Land Records Department and District Library from the ancient Palace premises and had handed over the premises to ASI.

Also, following directions of the Court from time to time, the State Government has released Rs.10.76 crore for permanent works as per the DPR.

However, it was suspended following the outbreak of Coronavirus which forced the Government of Karnataka to stop operation of buses. "We are making preparation and ready to operate the buses once we get green signal from our Central Office," said an official.

Speeding vehicle kills Bonnet Macaque at Bandipur

• Environmentalists demand fixing of CCTV cameras to identify speeding vehicles

Mysuru, Aug. 26 (BCT)-A video of a baby Bonnet Macaque wailing near its mother's dead body in Bandipur Tiger Reserve has gone viral. The video was shot recently near the Melukamanahalli Gate of the Tiger Reserve where an unidentified speeding vehicle ran over the Bonnet Macaque.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Abdul Shez, who shot the video, said that the baby Macaque refused to move away from its mother's blood-soaked dead body without realising that its mother has been killed by a speeding vehicle. "It was a heart-rending sight to see the baby screeching. It did not even allow people near its mother," he said.

Many roadkills are reported every day and most of the times, small reptiles, monkeys and even big cats are killed while crossing the road from one side of the forest to other. Nearly 3,500 vehicles pass through Bandipur en route Ooty per day during the weekends and a majority of the motorists ignore the speed limit and rip through the jungles.

The highway in question here is NH 766, previously NH 212 that connects Kollegal in Karnataka and Kozhikode in Kerala via Mysuru and Gundlupet and Sulthan Batheri and Kalpetta in the Wayanad district of Kerala. It bifurcates at Gundlupet with NH 766 proceeding to Kerala and NH 67 connecting Gundlupet to Ooty in Tamil Nadu.

About 24.5 km of this highway slices through the core of the Bandipur Tiger Reserve which is a critical tiger habitat and an important migration path for large mammals in the reserve.

Traffic is at present banned inside Bandipur Tiger Reserve from 9 pm to 6 am and this was enforced in 2009 by the then Mysuru Deputy Commissioner. Kerala has opposed the night ban and has repeatedly approached the Supreme Court saying that the ban has hampered the State's business activities. Even the Apex Court has ruled that Karnataka's move was right in the interests of protecting the environment. Still, the neighbouring State has not stopped exerting its influence on the Centre from time to time to lift the ban.

Karnataka Forest Department, environment activists and the National Tiger Conservation Authority have pointed out in the Court that after the ban has been imposed, the number of roadkills has reduced. "At present, however, as the number of vehicles traversing on the Highway has increased during the day time, the net gain of reducing road kills by introducing a ban on night traffic is gradually neutralised owing to repeated road kills during day time," environmentalists said.

"Many road kills go unnoticed as they are small animals. There have been instances of leopards and tigers getting crushed under the wheels. There is an urgent need for the Forest Department to increase vigil on the stretch. The present road humps are useless as many vehicles pick up speed within seconds after crossing the road humps. CCTV cameras must be fixed to identify the killer vehicles so that they can be fined for causing the road kill," environment activists said.

Such cameras have been installed in Australia where they can take long-distance shots while the images are clear. Forest Department should put speed breakers every 500 metres. Check posts at both entry and exit points should compulsorily check the vehicle and give pass tokens. Further, time limits should be given for the passage of vehicles, they add.

Rare animal spotted at Bandipur Tiger Reserve

The rusty-spotted cat that has been sighted inside the Bandipur Tiger Reserve.

Mysuru, Aug. 26 (BCT)- A rare rusty-spotted cat has been sighted inside the Bandipur Tiger Reserve. Reputed to be the smallest wild cat at about half the size of its domestic cousin, the rusty-spotted species shares its habitat with tigers and leopards inside the Reserve.

The photo was clicked by Abdul Shez. While the tiger is closely monitored, little is known about the status of the rusty spotted cat (Prionailurus rubiginosus). The species has been recorded in India and Sri Lanka but it has been sighted in Nepal also in recent times. Many wildlife experts describe it as the smallest cat species in the wild, though some say the African black-footed cat qualifies for that status.

The rusty-spotted cat has a short reddish grey fur over most of the body with rusty spots on the back and flanks. Four blackish lines run over the eyes, and two of them extend over the neck.

Six dark streaks are on each side of the head, extending over the cheeks and forehead. Its chin, throat, inner side of the limbs and belly are whitish with tiny brownish spots. It has a rusty band on the chest. Its paws and tail are uniform reddish grey.

Since 2016, the global wild rusty-spotted cat population is listed as 'Near Threatened' on the IUCN Red List as it is fragmented and affected by loss and destruction of prime habitat, deciduous forests.

IUCN or International Union for Conservation of Nature is the global authority on the status of the natural world and the measures needed to safeguard it.

Pourakarmikas boycott work

Mysuru, Aug.26 (MTY&SSV)- Demanding direct credit of salary to bank accounts, hundreds of Pourakarmikas boycotted work and staged a protest in front of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) here today.

They said the Government of Karnataka has permitted Urban Local Bodies (ULBs) to credit the salary of Pourakarmikas directly into their bank account. The MCC has to take a decision in its Council meeting and adopt a resolution to this effect. Though months have passed, the MCC has failed to decide this, they alleged.

The agitators demanded that this matter should be taken up for discussion in the coming general Council meeting of MCC failing which they will go on an indefinite stir from the next day.

Over 500 Pourakarmikas led by former Mayor Narayan and other office-bearers of Pourakarmika Sangha sat in dharna before the City Corporation building. As a token of solidarity, the Pourakarmikas boycotted work in all 65 Wards and participated in the protest.

Re-install Sangolli Rayanna's Statue

They demanded action against culprits for desecration of Rayanna's statue and wanted the State Government to direct the Belagavi District Administration to re-install it in the same place. Sangolli Rayanna was a great freedom fighter and removal of the statue was an insult to him. They also slammed the Police for taking action on protesters in Belagavi.

They warned of intensifying their protest if the statue was not re-installed. Former MLAs M.K. Somashekar, Vasu, Puttasiddashetty, ex-Mayors T.B. Chikkanna and Pushpalatha Chikkanna, Subramanya of Karnataka Pradesh Kurubara Sangha, Karnataka State Backward Classes Association President K.S. Shivaram and Vice-President Rekha Priyadarshini, Corporator J. Gopi, Savita Samaja District President N.R. Nagesh, Vishwakarma Mahamandala District President C.T. Acharya and others took part in protest.

Dasara: No Jumboo Savari

However, Somashekar, said a final decision in this regard will be taken at a High-Power Committee meeting to be chaired by the CM in Bengaluru in next couple of days. The elected representatives from Mysuru would be consulted before taking decision.

After that meeting, he and Tourism Minister C.T. Ravi would come to Mysuru to hold another round of discussion before finalising the road map for Dasara-2020 preparation.

Deputy Commissioner of Mysuru Abhiram G. Sankar, who is also the Dasara Special Officer, had written to Additional Chief Secretary regarding holding a High-Power Committee meeting as the days are fast approaching for Dasara preparations.

The decision regarding the formal inauguration of Dasara atop the Chamundi Hill and inviting a chief guest to declare open the ten-day festival (Oct. 17 to Oct. 26) would be decided by Yediyurappa in the meeting.

The Minister said the Government was constrained to do this following strict instruction from the Government of India on avoiding gathering of people due to fast spreading of pandemic. It would be an impossible task for anybody to ask people to maintain social distancing during Dasara festivities. Though Dasara is a big event as far as Mysuru City is concerned, it has to be celebrated in low-key this time due to the threat of Corona, he added.

COVID-19 vaccine trials at JSS Hospital

The first human trials of vaccine began yesterday with the first patients screened by Bharati Vidyapeetham Deemed University (BVDU) Medical College and Hospital in Pune. Yesterday, some patients were screened and the next stage is to get their COVID antibody test reports. If they come negative, they will be inoculated with 'Covishield' vaccine.

The trials are to be conducted across 17 selected sites, including AIIMS Delhi, Bharati Vidyapeetham Deemed University in Pune, Rajendra Memorial Research Institute of Medical Sciences (RMRIMS) in Patna, Post Graduate Institute of Medical Education and Research in Chandigarh, AIIMS-Jodhpur, Nehru Hospital in Gorakhpur, Andhra Medical College in Visakhapatnam and JSS Hospital in Mysuru. Over 1,600 people aged above 18 years are likely to participate in the trials.

The vaccine is made from a weakened version of a common cold, adenovirus, taken from chimpanzees and genetically modified. The vaccine candidate – ChadOx1NcOV – has shown encouraging results in early human trials, according to experts. Results of phase 1/2 trial, published in 'The Lancet' medical journal, shows that the vaccine had induced strong immune response.

ICMR has so far recognised 249 indigenous Corona test kits

New Delhi, Aug. 26 (UNI)- Promoting self-sufficiency in medical equipment manufacturing, the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) has so far recognised a total of 382 COVID-19 test kits, of which 249 are indigenously manufactured.

Briefing media here yesterday, ICMR Director-General Balram Bhargava said 726 different test kits have been evaluated so far for the COVID test, of which 382 have been recognised. Of these 382 test kits, 249 are indigenously manufactured.

He said due to the indigenously-built test kits, their cost has come down considerably resulting in their greater purchase. As a result, more and more of these kits were purchased, which increased Corona test speed.

Dr. Bhargava stated that ICMR evaluated a total of 171 Viral Transport Medium (VTM) kits, of which 139 were recognised. As many as 119 of 139 VTM kits are manufactured indigenously. ICMR evaluated 186 RNA extraction kits out of which 112 were recognised. Out of these 112 recognised RNA extraction kits, 62 are indigenously manufactured. Of the 104 rapid antibody kits evaluated, 12 were recognised, 11 of which were indigenously manufactured.

Similarly, 3 out of 17 Rapid Antigen Kits have been recognised, one of which is indigenously manufactured. Out of 36 ELISA kits evaluated, 12 were recognised (10 indigenously built). ICMR evaluated 212 RT-PCR test kits, of which 104 were recognised; 46 of these kits are manufactured indigenously.

A few years ago, a portion of the historic Lansdowne building collapsed claiming a few lives. Similarly, a portion of the century-old Devaraja Market crashed. The portico of Fire Brigade building in Saraswathipuram too caved in last year due to rains.

Interestingly, both Devaraja Market and Lansdowne buildings were under the maintenance of MCC. The Congress Government led by CM Siddharamaiah had released Rs. 5 crore towards the restoration of Lansdowne building but the amount had remained unspent due to some reasons.

As far as Devaraja Market was concerned, so far there was no consensus on its restoration as a few have sought total re-construction than taking up the repair works of the collapsed portion.

"We need not have depended on the Government if the MCC had separate fund for maintenance, restoration or conservation of heritage structures. Visitors do not mind giving Re. 1 or Rs. 2 extra as it was being used for a good purpose. This matter has to be debated in the Council meeting and then forward the copy of resolution to the Government for the final approval. I am going to discuss with the Mayor and leaders of all parties to introduce this new cess in the interest of conserving heritage buildings in the city," the Commissioner said.

He opined that the Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage can take up a study on the condition of heritage structures within the city so as to take up its renovation. Presently, they do not have details on its present condition unless it was of national or international importance. Involving local heritage experts will definitely go a long way in giving a fresh lease of life to the heritage structures.

The Government while restoring the pre-pandemic level of public and vehicular movement, said there is no need to obtain an e-pass or a mandatory 14-day quarantine stay. Along with it, the hand-stamping of inter-State travellers too has been scrapped.

The State Government's decision comes following the Centre's initiative to facilitate free movement of persons and goods across all the States in the country.

Accordingly, people can travel into Karnataka by road, either in their own vehicles or by public transport, by train or by flight with zero curbs.

Noting that all commuters upon their arrival in the State shall observe standard COVID-19 precautions such as compulsory wearing of face mask, maintenance of two mts physical distancing, frequent hand-washing with soap and water or use of hand sanitiser and following of cough etiquette while in public areas and work places, the order said that monitoring by supervisory teams at the Gram Panchayat/ Ward-level, Flying Squads and IVRS Call Centres has been stopped.

What are the symptoms of rippling skin?

The Trademark: Rippling Skin - The skin on the cat's lower back visibly ripples, accompanied by the cat biting and scratching at his back or tail.

Loud and Insistent "Worry" - Meowing - Cats afflicted with this syndrome may also meow loudly for no apparent reason, often at night.

Strange Eye Appearance - Pupils may become dilated, and they may stare blankly into space; the eyes may appear glassy.

Erratic Racing - The cat will often run in circles or race off, first in one direction, then another.

Sensitivity to Touch - A cat affected with this disorder may sometimes show extreme sensitivity and discomfort from petting and any physical contact on the skin.

It is not surprising that a condition with so many anxiety-like symptoms also includes a number of anxiety-inducing causes ranging from dietary or environmental toxicity to acquired allergy or over-sensitivity, to a compulsive habit in an attempt to self-soothe.

The alert caretaker may benefit from using a calendar in order to document the day-to-day or week-to-week frequency of each of these anxiety behaviours, as each might seem "normal" if seen infrequently or one at a time.

What are the causes of rippling skin?

First, rule out other potential physical causes:

Pansteatitis (Steatitis, Yellow Fat Disease) - Pansteatitis is a disease caused by an excess of unsaturated fatty acids, combined with a lack of sufficient Vitamin E. It is most often caused in cats by frequent consumption of red tuna, and some experts have blamed it on non-nutritional homemade diets. The resultant "sick fat" deposits can be very painful to cats.

Brain Involvement - Particularly with FSH cats displaying seizures, a potential brain infection, skull trauma, or tumours should be investigated by a veterinarian.

Flea Allergies - Itchy skin due to flea bites could be cause for erratic behaviour in cats, and this potential cause should be relatively easy to rule out by examination of the skin under the coat.

Rippling Skin Disorder will most likely be seen as a form of OCD (Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder) or as a stress-related condition, and there are appropriate dietary, environmental, and behavioural steps that can be taken in such cases.

What is Feline Immunodeficiency Virus (FIV)?

FIV is from the same family as the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) that causes AIDS, but it only appears in cats. Although it can be fatal if left untreated, a positive test for FIV is not a mandatory death sentence for your pet. With a high-protein diet and aggressive treatment of secondary infections, an FIV-positive cat can lead a reasonably normal life for several years after diagnosis. FIV is transmitted by deep bite wounds (saliva to blood), or during gestation (blood to blood), and cats are more likely to die of secondary infection or other causes because of their compromised immune systems. However, many cats may live normally for years before they become ill.

Why is my cat biting?

Some cats bite to stop unwanted action or behaviours by humans or other animals, especially if this was effective in the past. For example, if they previously bit while having their nails trimmed and then the nail trimming stopped, they may have learned that is an effective tool. Some cats bite as a form of communication or demand for attention. Instead of meowing, they bite. If a cat nips you and then tries to lead you to an activity, such as playing with a toy, this could be the reason.

Why do cats bang their forehead on humans?

It's called head bunting, a form of affection. Cats have glands all over their bodies and use these parts of their bodies to mark their territory. Some of this territory is their human. They mark their humans as a way of claiming them as their possession, thus head bunting.

How to stop your cat from chewing electrical cords?

Consider wrapping cords in rubber covers that can be purchased at most stores that sell electrical and home repair supplies. Putting the cords inside PVC tubing is also an option. You can also rub them with a citrus scent, which cats dislike and will avoid.

How to trim your cat's nails?

Begin by gently petting its paws while simultaneously petting the cat in its favourite spots. Do this for each paw you plan to trim. Whenever you handle your cat's paws, reward it with treats and praise to help build positive associations. Place your hand over the cat's paw, and then flip your hand around so the bottom of the cat's paw is on the palm of your hand. Keep rewarding the cat with petting and treats; give the cat a new, special treat that will only be associated with cutting its claws. Gently massage your fingers over the tops and bottoms of each paw you plan to trim.

Reward your cat with more treats and praise. When your cat's claws are extended, you'll see the thick part of the nail, and, towards the cat's toe, a pinkish area inside the nail, called the quick. The quick is the living part of the nail and contains blood vessels and nerves, so cutting a cat's nail to the quick is very painful for the cat. Never cut a cat's nail close to or flush with the toe; your aim is to clip off only the sharp point. Look carefully at where and how large each quick is — through a clear nail it will look like a small pink triangle. Each of your cat's nails will be similar, so even if the cat has dark nails, look to find one clear nail as a reference point for the others. Hold the clippers in one hand and hold your cat's paw in the other. Gently squeeze the top and bottom of your cat's paw, on the joint just behind the claw to extend the claw. You should first cut just the tip of the nails, and as you get more comfortable, you can cut closer to the quick, but never cut all the way to the quick or you can hurt your cat and make its nails bleed. Hold the cat as described earlier and cut the nails one by one. Position the trimmers halfway between the end of the quick and the claw.

Why does my cat hiss and growl?

A cat who is growling, hissing, or spitting is a clear sign that the cat is agitated, frightened, or angry about something. When your cat growls and hisses, he's effectively saying, "Back off now, or else." Usually, a growl is just a warning and he won't attack. Growling is often accompanied by hissing along with possibly arching his back. The point is to make him sound and look fierce enough that whatever is bothering him backs off.

What should I do with abandoned litter of kittens?

Don't assume that a litter of kittens is orphaned just because you don't see the mom. It's common for the mother to leave her babies, so give the kittens a bit of distance and see if the mom returns. If she doesn't return within an hour or two, it is time for you to step in and help.

Bringing an orphaned kitten to a shelter is a death sentence. The majority of shelters do not provide care to unweaned kittens, so if you want them to live, it's going to be your responsibility to help them yourself, or to find someone who can. Think about their immediate needs, if you observe any serious health concerns, such as gasping for air or bleeding, take the kitten to a veterinarian. You're going to need to quickly gather supplies so you can get them warm, stable, hydrated, and fed. Kittens cannot control their body temperature, so help them regulate their body temperature before trying to feed them — especially if they have been exposed to cold temperatures. A heating pad on low, a warm water bottle, or even a sock filled with rice and put in the microwave can all provide a steady but mild heat source to a cold kitten.

What is Feline Hepatic Lipidosis?

Feline hepatic lipidosis, also known as feline fatty liver syndrome, is one of the most common forms of liver disease of cats. The disease officially has no known cause, though obesity is known to increase the risk. The disease begins when the cat stops eating from a loss of appetite, forcing the liver to convert body fat into usable energy. If this process continues for too long, fat builds up in the cells of the liver, and the disease has officially onset.

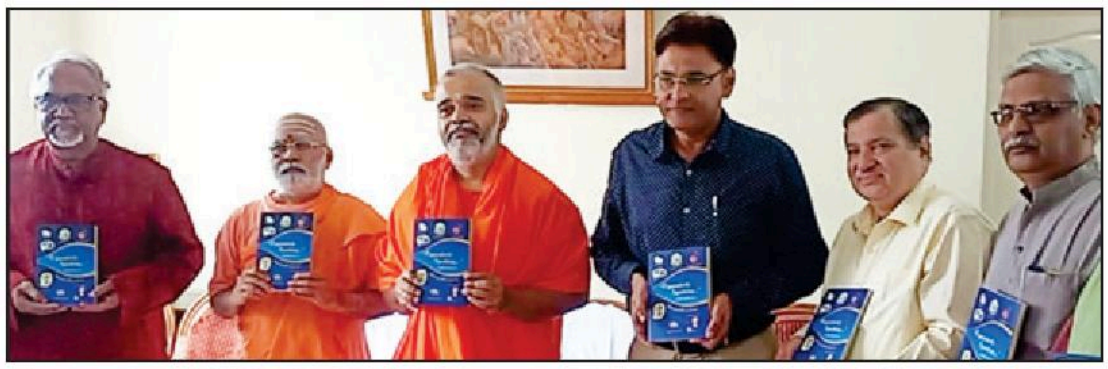
Book 'Figuratively Speaking...' launched



Mysuru, Aug. 26- The book 'Figuratively Speaking...' was released at Chinmaya Mission Center of Mysuru on Aug. 16.

Mandya Chinmaya Mission Acharya Sri Adityananda Saraswathi unveiled the paperback edition of the book to the public.

The e-book version was released by P. Visweswara Rau, Senior Divisional Manager, LIC of India, Mysuru.

Swami Adityananda, in his address, spoke about the nuances of figurative language in various languages and congratulated the writer M.S. Narayana on the release of his maiden literary piece.

Swami Dattapadananda, Acharya of Mysuru Chinmaya Mission Centre, said that it was Gurudev Swami Chinmayananda's blessings and a divine design that the book 'Figuratively Speaking...' was being launched at that holy venue of Shree Datta Sannidhi.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr. B.V. Narasimham unveiled the writer's personality. In his presidential address, Visweswara Rau expressed concern over the dwindling interest in literary activities in the present day youth. He complemented the writer's multitasking abilities and urged that the writer's literary pursuits should continue further.

Publisher Samskruthi Subramanya stated that the book 'Figuratively Speaking...' will be available at leading book shops of Mysuru. He assured that the book will be made available for Bengaluru readers also. He added that the e-book version is already available on Google Play Books and Amazon Kindle.

R.S. Ganesh Prasad, who has written the Foreword to the book, compered the entire proceedings. The programme was streamed live on Facebook for a larger audience.

A Brief Description of the Book: 'Figuratively Speaking...' is the author's musings on a host of topics related to the pandemic and lockdown.

During the recent lockdown, the author has humorously recorded his thoughts in this compilation of essays which are deliberately loaded with many idioms, phrases and other elements of figurative language.

While a casual reader can have loads of fun reading these mostly lighthearted narratives, keys to the world of figurative language comes as an absolutely free takeaway. The book covers a wide range of topics that deal with various social, political, medical, cultural and even the spiritual aspects related to the pandemic and the lockdown. The generally humorous narrative style employed through the book sometimes gets surprisingly serious and thought-provoking.

By design, all the 34 essays in this compilation have been generously stuffed with all the elements of figurative language to the extent possible.

Constructively using the free time that unexpectedly fell into our laps due to the lockdown, the author has made an earnest attempt to entertain both the casual reader and the English language lover through this book of somewhat unconventional genre that is crafted to tickle the funny bones of its patrons.

For the readers with a deeper interest in figurative expressions, this book also attempts to introduce the world of figurative language, in a novel way.

The first two essays of the book have been provided with the necessary footnotes for various idioms and phrases used in them. Hopefully, these footnotes inspire the inclined readers to proactively learn more about figurative language, as they go through the rest of the essays.

Figurative speech is the tricky trade of saying a thing and meaning another. While the literal language simply states facts, the figurative language is used to convey a message in a more interesting and colourful manner. Figurative expressions go beyond plain-speak and allude to a reality different from what they apparently seem to be at the first blush. One needs to be weary of these sheep in the clothes of wolves, for figuring out the figurative language by seeing through the camouflage is not everybody's cup of tea.

'Figuratively Speaking...' can serve as a useful module for language lovers to develop proficiency in figurative language.

Was Sushant drugged unknowingly?

New Delhi, Aug. 26- After Rhea Chakraborty's alleged links to banned drugs surfaced in connection with the Sushant Singh Rajput death case, her WhatsApp chats were accessed by a news channel. In the chats, she allegedly talks about MDMA and marijuana. One of the messages sent to Rhea also advises her to 'use 4 drops in coffee, tea or water and let him sip it'. It is presumed that the 'him' being referred to is Sushant.

Responding to this, Vikas Singh, Sushant's family lawyer said that it was 'highly illegal' for such drugs to be administered to the late actor without his knowledge. He said, "In our FIR, we have mentioned that he used to be over-drugged. We were under impression that this was some drug administered by a doctor, a psychiatrist, but this revelation is absolutely explosive. Probably, he was being literally drugged, meaning he was given these hardcore drugs which are given to someone to sort of control his mind."

WORD OF THE DAY

Inveigh

Pronunciation: in-VAY.
Meaning: To protest or complain bitterly or vehemently : rail.
Origin: You might complain or grumble about some wrong you see, or, for a stronger effect, you can inveigh against it. Inveigh comes from the Latin verb invehere, which joins the prefix in- with the verb vehere, meaning "to carry." Invehere literally means "to carry in," and when inveigh first appeared in English, it was also used to mean "to carry in" or "to introduce." Extended meanings of invehere, however, are "to force one's way into," "to attack," and "to assail with words," and that's where the current sense of inveigh comes from. A closely related word is invective, which means "insulting or abusive language." This word, too, ultimately comes from invehere.
Example: "Wearing a blue suit, [Hannah] Gadsby begins by pointing to a prop dog made of crayons onstage, immediately making fun of herself, a notable shift since 'Nanette,' when she inveighed against self-deprecation." — Jason Zinoman

THE ODD WORD

Ibex

Wild mountain goat with recurved horns.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

I spy with my little eye

Origin: You've been a kid before, so there is a good chance that you've played some of the classic children's games while growing up. Games such as "hide and go seek" or "tag." These are enjoyed by kids around the world. However, we're here to talk about the game "I Spy" because that is where the phrase originates from. So... what is "I Spy" and how is it played? If you're unfamiliar, don't worry, it is quite simple: "I Spy" is a game that's typically played by two players. One player is the "spy" and his job is to choose an object out of the environment; let's say he chooses a brown rug. The second player then has to guess what object was chosen.
The spy will give a clue to the other player to help them figure it out. Usually this clue is either the colour of the object or the letter it starts with. For example, the spy will say: "I spy with my little eye something starting with the letter R." The second player will then start to guess, examining the environment for relevant objects. They keep guessing until they guess correctly or give up, and then it's the other person's turn.
So that's how you play the game.

QUOTE BOX

Roadside garbage dumping, an eyesore on Gen. Thimayya Road

Improper collection of household garbage is resulting in dumping of the same on roadsides which has become an eyesore on General Thimayya Road, close to the HP Petrol Bunk near the Ring Road in Vijayanagar, allege residents. The residents have urged the authorities concerned to at least place garbage bins at vantage points in the locality so that garbage could be dumped into it which would prevent it from scattering all over.

Will Ashoka Road be repaired soon?

Ashoka Road, one of the busiest roads situated in the heart of the city, was dug up last year to lay new pipeline. But the road (dug up portion) has not been asphalted and even the debris in front of many shops is not removed causing a lot of problems to the public as well as to the shopkeepers as the debris is spewing dust which is very harmful when inhaled. Authorities concerned are urged to take steps to remove the debris and asphalt the road at the earliest.
